This seminar is not to be missed!

Orthodox Management of Respiratory Conditions

Dr Jim Bartley

Jim will discuss case history taking, examination skills and investigations in the diagnosis of upper respiratory disease. He will review the current pharmaceutical and medical management of allergic and infectious respiratory disease, interactions between the upper and lower respiratory tracts and the current surgical management of upper respiratory disease.

Jim’s talk will include the influence of breathing techniques on health and the role of vitamin D supplementation in infectious respiratory disease.

Better Respiratory Health

Herbal and integrative approaches for common conditions

Dr Nicky Baillie

Dr Nicky Baillie will present her insights and experience in supporting people with common respiratory conditions naturally, including recurrent URTI, sinusitis, hayfever, asthma, chest infections and COPD.

She will share case studies from her practice highlighting some of the most effective approaches, challenges, and things to look out for, when working with people with respiratory health issues.

Rongoa Maori

NZ Native plants and their clinical application for respiratory conditions

Phil Rasmussen

Phil’s passion for Rongoa stems back to his youth growing up on the East Coast of New Zealand & he has studied & used NZ Natives extensively in his practice for many years.

Respiratory disease was common amongst both Maori and early European settlers to NZ, and there are a significant number of native plants which can support the health of the respiratory system. In this talk, Phil will share his extensive clinical experience is using these herbs, including presentation of case studies and practical tips for using NZ native plants in practice.
